Who was among the first to advocate the election of United States senators by the people?

STOCKTON

Who led the fight in the legislature and introduced the first bill creating the railroad commission?

STOCKTON

Who was prominent among those who advocated and gave to the people the primary system?

STOCKTON

Who advocated and started the movement for municipal ownership of public utilities, and to whom the city electric light and waterworks plants of Jacksonville stand today as lasting monuments?

STOCKTON

Who has held aloft the standard of equal rights and has championed the cause of the common people, of clean government and of honest politics for nearly a quarter of a century?

STOCKTON

Who has extended a helping hand to young men and lifted them to places of honor and influence in public and business life?

STOCKTON

Who, when a banker, was known as a refuge of the poor and has given liberally of his means to charity?

STOCKTON

Who has grown old in the service of his party and never been rewarded?

STOCKTON

Who is the only candidate who says he will not have any private business, but will give all his time to the service of the people if elected to the United States senate?

STOCKTON

Who has conducted a clean campaign; who has never mentioned the names of either of his opponents to say aught against them?

STOCKTON

Others may talk about what they will do, but who can best answer the question, "What have you already done for the public good?"

STOCKTON

While others have devoted their time to the building up of law practices, representing railroads and other corporations and attending to their private business affairs, who has been laboring for years for those things in public affairs beneficial to the people?

STOCKTON

Who has come in closer contact with all classes of the people in all sections of the state for the past twenty-five years and knows better the needs of the people than any other candidate?

STOCKTON

Who has given more study and thought to the problems of the people and is better equipped to handle the tariff railroad rates and the other great questions of national importance than any other candidate?

STOCKTON

These are some of the reasons why Stockton's candidacy for United States senator has developed so strongly and is growing so rapidly and which has made the campaign slogan a by-word all over Florida—

"LET'S PUT STOCKTON IN THIS TIME."
